INDEX TO VOL. II.

Address, 1.
A Chapter on Poetry and Poets, 606.
Advice, 137.
A Stroll in and about Oxford, 425.
A Serenade, 25.
Atys, 557.
Autobiography of a Reporter, 321.

Cartouche (a Tale), 616.
Catullus and his Songs, 77—113.
Clouds of Aristophanes, a Scene from, 162.

Ebenezer Elliott, 228.
Entomology, 233.
Epigram, 240.
Errors of the Press, 258.
Examination Papers—Classical Tripos, 109, 514.
. . . . . Senate-House, 191, 395.
Extracts from the Memoirs of Satan, 595.

German Anthology, Specimens from, 135, 332, 445, 584.

Homeric Hymn to Bacchus, 362.

Ishmael, 568.

Latin Elegiacs, 56.
Latin Verses, Haymaking, 255.
Literature and Imagination, 58.
Living Dramatists of England, 33, 266, 374, 485.
Lucian, Dialogues from, 290.

Meletemata Paideutica, 3.
Miscellanea Æsthetica, 178.
My Soul was dark and desolate, 484.

Original Poetry, 603.
Our Green Bag, 209, 569.

Pencillings of Undergraduates, 26.
Plato and Mr. Sewell, 448.
Poland, 11, 122.
Porson and other University Prize Poems, 307, 657.
Prince Seraphim; or, The Fallen Angel, 68.

Queen Melior, 219, 334, 462.

Reviews—Peacock on University Reform, 89, 138.—Faber's Poems, 98.—Church Principles, 342.—Latin Poems of Walter Mapes, 497.—Tennyson's Poems, 629.

Schiller, a Scene from, 352.

The Emperor's Funeral, 10.
The Later Latin Poets, 559.
The Martyr's Grave, 232
The New Name, 364.
The Poets of England who have died young, 5, 470.
The Recent Histories of Rome, 533.
The Samphire-Gatherer, 241.
The Sonnet-Writers of England, 286.
The Spectre Ship, 590.
Trip to Tintagel, 365.

University Intelligence, 103, 180, 292, 386, 504, 640.

Vision of the Heroes of Poland, 502.

Wine, 160.
Withered Leaves, 483.